During the overnight hours of the 11th, moisture built back to the north as temperatures dipped into the 30s. A wintry mix of precipitation ended up developing across the northern half of the state by the morning of the 12th. There was freezing rain toward central sections of the state. From around Searcy to Newport and Jonesboro, temperatures managed to dip just below freezing and there were small amounts of freezing rain and sleet, followed by a little snow.

Freezing rain and sleet was followed by some snow at Campbell Station (Jackson County) on 3/12/2009 between 8 AM and 3 PM. This photo is courtesy of Kenny Thompson.
